VOL. VII. NO. 121.

GREENSBORO, N. C., SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22, 1900.

THE JOINT NOTE IS SIGNED

THE BRITISH FOREIGN OFFICE IS CERTAIN OF IT.

Though it has not received official notification they regard the contrary reports as a mistake.

London, Dec. 22.—It appears that the British foreign office has not received notification from Pekin that the joint note has been signed, but in view of the fact that it had received assurances from the ambassadors in London that all the ministers had been instructed to sign, foreign office accepted as correct, the semi-official despatches from Berlin and Paris announcing the signature. The foreign office says it has every reason to believe that the signing is an accomplished fact and that the telegrams to the contrary are possibly anterior thereto.

Social.

Mrs. Harry Lee entertained the Social Card Club last night. Progressive whist was played and the party enjoyed a most delightful evening. A pretty china cake plate was the first prize. It was won by Mrs. Cornelius Mebane. Mrs. B. C. Sharpe received the other prize, a picture.

The Progressive Euchre Club met with Mrs. Thos. Bernard last evening. In the games Mrs. Nelson, Miss Wetmore and Miss Horry came out even, and so out for the prize. Miss Horry was the successful one. Mr. W. H. Wetmore won the gentleman's prize. Miss Frances O'Brien captured the booty, and Mrs. Parker received the consolation prize.

Survey for Electric Light Plant.

Mr. F. H. Tidman, of the Tower-Bufford Electric Light and Manufacturing Company, of Richmond, is in Greensboro for the purpose of making a preliminary survey to ascertain the cost of putting in an electric light plant. He is working for the town.

A Charlotte Paper Makes Mr. Bryan an Attractive Offer.

In this connection it may not be amiss to state that an invitation has been extended to Hon. W. J. Bryan to make Charlotte his home and become editor of The News and Times-Democrat.

A letter containing an attractive offer has been mailed Mr. Bryan by the editor and proprietor of these papers, and he hopes to have a favorable reply at an early date.

The splendid advantages offered by this city and this section are set before Mr. Bryan, its wonderful growth and progress, and its unequalled attractions on account of location, natural resources, etc., for the publication of a great newspaper.

The News hopes on its own account, and on account of its city and State and section that Mr. Bryan will give this proposition favorable consideration.

Hon. C. H. Mebane spent last night in the city. He could not be here to attend the meeting of the board of directors of the State Normal College, of which he is a member.

Mr. and Mrs. John Sprunt Hill, of New York, were here today enroute to Durham to spend Christmas.

Misses Lelia and Milton Pitts left today at noon to spend the holidays with relatives and friends at Red Springs and Sanford.

One Twenty-Three Feet Long Caught at a Depth of 250 Fathoms.

A new sea serpent has been discovered on the coast of Japan, 100 miles from Tokyo. It is classed by scientists as a coelenterate and one of the most gigantic ever seen. It was caught by a long fishing line at a depth of 250 fathoms. It was a magnificent specimen. A large disk surmounted a long stalk, which evidently fixed the animal on the sea bottom. A circle of numerous graceful tentacles hung down from the margin of the disk, while on its upper surface arose an oval tube surrounded at its base by bushy appendages and having a second circle of slender tentacles around the upper edge. The total height of the animal was 700 millimeters (23 feet) and the prevailing color transparent scarlet. The specimen was entirely fresh, but not living.

Look the Christmas Cakes.

Mr. A. H. Alderman, cashier of the Greensboro National bank, was all "put out" this morning. Mrs. Alderman lost her Christmas cakes last night. Thieves broke into the pantry, and cleaned it out. While they got other things, Mr. Alderman thinks he could stand that if the cakes hadn't gone, too.

LIKE SAVAGES SAYS KRUGER.

THAT IS HOW THE ENGLISH ARE WAGING WAR.

The President Seeking to Get the Powers to Say if they Will do as they Promised at the Hague.

London, Dec. 21.—Mr. William T. Stead has just returned from The Hague, where he has had a long conference with Kruger and has ascertained the views of Mr. Kruger and his counsellors as to the present situation and future prospects. Mr. Stead has written the following for the Associated Press:

"First of all, nothing is decided about his visit to America at present. President Kruger has not abandoned all hope of securing the support of the governments of the civilized world in his demand for arbitration. Until the last government refuses absolutely to say a word in support of the principles which they solemnly laid down at The Hague conference, Mr. Kruger will not partake in popular demonstrations. It is recognized that if he cared to do so he could shake the continent. Popular enthusiasm for him is unparalleled since Garibaldi's visit to London, but until his diplomatic mission is exhausted an appeal to the people cannot even be taken into consideration. Mr. Kruger is emphatic in disclaiming any desire to involve other nations in war in behalf of the Boers. What he asks is that the governments which at The Hague declared their determination to use their efforts to secure amicable settlement of disputes by means of mediation and arbitration, should make a united effort to bring the verdict of the civilized world to bear on Great Britain.

"The English," Mr. Kruger said, "are waging this war in South Africa like savages. They are burning homes, destroying dams, cutting trees, devastating fields and creating famine. They are unable to capture Dewet, but they are making prisoners of women and children, who are not treated with ordinary decency. Hundreds of women have been confined in a prison near Port Elizabeth, with only one chair, and several of them are expected to become mothers."

"Mr. Kruger avers that the provisions of The Hague convention and the laws and usages of war are trampled under foot and he wants to know whether the signatories of this convention have anything to say on the subject."

A Monument for Roanoke.

News and Observer.

Mr. Graham Daves is indefatigable in his efforts to secure a monument at Roanoke Island. He is now in Washington pressing the bill which has been favorably reported. Such devotion to the State has not been witnessed in this decade.

New York Banker Presents to Metropolitan Museum a Valuable Collection of Greek Ornaments.

In the most informal manner, J. Pierpont Morgan made a princely donation to the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of the New York city, the other day. It consists of a collection of ancient Greek ornaments, for which he is said to have paid $200,000.

The collection was bought from a London art dealer. One of the Rothschilds, it is said, was anxious to obtain it, but Mr. Morgan anticipated him.

The articles were wrought principally in gold, some of the ornamentation being in silver. Inscriptions on some of them show that they were made about 350 B. C., in Albia, where Ionian Greeks from Miletus had established a colony after that city had been sacked by the Persians.

In the collection is a gold-embossed mask of a young woman, with a Greek inscription of four lines in repousse work. The mask is in perfect condition. There is a large gold crown about four inches in length and eight inches in diameter. A heavy gold necklace of beautiful Greek workmanship has ten golden amphorae as pendants and a large mask as a centerpiece. The necklace is in fine granulated work.

The other articles are a gold and silver bridal wreath of unique design and in perfect condition, a large gold wreath of ivy leaves, two gold-winged statuettes representing musicians playing Pan's pipes, and a gold ram of granulated workmanship.

The ornaments evidently had been the property of a king, a prince, or a wealthy nobleman.

Heavy Trading on Stock Market. By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Dec. 22.—The stock market opened this morning with exciting trading and violent advances all along the line. Opening transactions in Northern Pacific were sixteen thousand shares at the extreme advance of one point. In Brooklyn Rapid Transit, seven thousand two hundred shares were traded in, with an advance of three points. There were heavy transactions in other stocks.

NEW PROFESSOR FOR G. F. C.

Prof. H. B. Craven, Grand-son of Dr. Braxton Craven, Succeeds Prof. Smoot.

Prof. T. A. Smoot, who was recently appointed to the pastorate of the Fayetteville church, will be succeeded at the Greensboro Female College by Prof. H. B. Craven, of Durham. Prof. Smoot will probably leave Greensboro next week, and Prof. Craven comes to the College with the opening of the Spring session. Of him the Durham Herald says:

"During the time that he has been at the head of the graded school here he has made many friends and the growth of the school shows the wisdom of his management. He has endeavored himself to every patron of the school, and the announcement of his resignation will be the cause of general regret among our people. Professor Craven is a graduate of Trinity College, and is not only a well educated man, but is a teacher by inheritance, being a grandson of the late and lamented Dr. Braxton Craven, who made Trinity what it is today. In leaving East Durham Professor Craven will carry with him the best wishes of all our people. As yet it is not known who will be selected to succeed him."

Cadets Relieved.

Anapolis, Md., Dec. 22.—Fifty-six cadets, comprising the entire third class of the Naval Academy, are greatly relieved, their punishment ending with today. They were placed on the third conduct grade on the 19th of November, and were permitted to visit the city only once. They were punished for having signed a petition to the secretary of the navy asking him to show clemency to a cadet that the superintendent had asked to have dismissed for "gloating."

The MacDonough Launched.

Weymouth, Mass., Dec. 22.—The torpedo boat destroyer was launched today at the Fore River Engine Company's plant. This is the last boat that the company will launch at the narrow reach of the river, the others to take the water at the new works at the mouth of the river at Quincy Point. Miss Lucy MacDonough, of Philadelphia, now Mrs. Charles Holcomb Read, christened the craft with her maiden name, after Commodore MacDonough.

New York, Dec. 22.—Manager Grau, who opened at the Metropolitan Opera House on the 18th inst. with "Romeo et Juliette" (in French), with Mme. Melba and MM. Edouard de Reszke, Plancon and Selezka, will give his first popular Sunday night concert tomorrow night.

THE SHAKE UP IN NEW YORK

TAMMANY CLOSED ALL THE GAMBLING DENS LAST NIGHT.

Dick Croker Knows Nothing of What is Going on and His Friends Can't Locate Him.

By Wire to The Telegram.

New York, Dec. 22.—Under the orders of Tammany Hall all the gambling establishments were closed tight last night. Lewis Nixon, acting for the Tammany Purity Committee, threatens to break with the police captains.

There is a rumor at the Democratic club that Croker is still in complete ignorance of the shake up in police circles. It is said that half a dozen telegrams to Croker have been returned undelivered and that his friends here don't know his present whereabouts. It is understood that Croker has left his home at Wantage, England, to go to some watering place on the continent. None of the Tammany leaders have heard from him in a week. Corporation Counsel Whalen is now recognized as the head of the organization.

Two Celebrated Law Suits.

Dallas, Texas, Dec. 22.—Two of the most interesting law suits ever tried in the Texas courts are expected to come up again before the Dallas district judges. Both have once been tried and each interests the entire state. One is the famous Mexia will contest, affecting at least half a million dollars' worth of property. The other is the Hayden-Cranfill case, which grew out of the Baptist church controversy, in which Dr. Hayden sued Dr. Cranfill, Col. Slaughter and thirty others for $50,000 damages, claiming that they had injured his reputation by "ousting" him from the State Baptist convention two years ago. There is a long array of prominent lawyers on both sides.

Delay Morocco Settlement.

Washington, Dec. 22.—The settlement of the claims against Morocco would have been completed ere this had it not been for the great annual religious festival of the Moors, which begins this week and ends in January. This occupies the attention of the Moors so absorbingly that it is considered impious for any person to transact business. If the guns of the United States had been set to summon the Sultan of Morocco to pay up we would have been considered barbarians. So the claimants will have to wait until February.

To Sue John Hays Hammond.

Colorado Springs, Col., Dec. 22.—T. A. Rickard, former consulting engineer of Stratton's Independence gold mine, at Cripple Creek, who has arrived here from London, will at once bring suit against John Hays Hammond, who as an expert reported against Rickard's estimates of the mine. Hammond reported the ore reserves at $2,200,000, while Rickard had put them at $13,000,000. Rickard claims that Hammond's statements greatly injured him.

Present for Convicts.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 22.—Governor Tanner prepared a nice Christmas present for six convicts by making the terms of their imprisonment expire tomorrow. Thomas Hennessey, sentenced 25 years; Richard Murray; Hester A. Demese, sentenced 8 years; Chow Lee, 30 years; Eliza Ventress, 14 years; John Hayes, one year; will all be released tomorrow.

No More Sailing on Sundays.

San Francisco, Dec. 22.—Transportation will no longer start from this port on Sundays. The Logan was put one day ahead, leaving here on the 15th, instead of the 16th, as first arranged, and the Thomas was held back a day, leaving on the 17th. The Hancock will sail on the first day of the twentieth century.

Close of "Quo Vadis" in Boston.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 22.—"Quo Vadis" ends tonight a triumphant series of performances extending over six weeks at the Boston Theatre, which could have been extended over six weeks at the Boston Theatre, which could have been extended indefinitely had it not been that counter bookings prevented.

CHRISTMAS PRESENTS.

BY SHAWEN.

Written for The Telegram.

"Don't be afraid to give with all your heart, the little things you can afford to give rather than with anxiety bestow the dear ones that exhaust the purse."

There is sound wisdom in the advice contained in the foregoing quotation, and the Christmas season would be a happier season if this advice were more generally heeded. The tendency in Christmas giving is to extravagance, and many a man and woman buys beyond his or her purse, because it has become so much the fashion to be ashamed of the little things that can be given without much sacrifice. The giving of Christmas presents is a pleasant and proper custom which should be encouraged. It is a custom which takes the world out of its selfishness for a season and illustrates the love of home and friends, without which life would be dreary indeed. It is the most natural impulse for one to wish to give the best as the gift of love, and there are thousands of people with warm and loving hearts who feel a pang of regret when they measure their desires with their means in the Christmas season. There are so many beautiful and costly things we would like to buy for those we love, those who deserve the costliest gifts of earth, and there are so many who can spend money without stint in making presents, those who are constrained by scant means are brought face to face with invidious contrasts of fortune and made to feel, at a time when they should be freest from all unhappiness, the cruel limitations of poverty. But, if we would take a right view of life and its pleasures we would be spared much pain and regret. Those who are rich and can buy the costliest gifts do well to buy them, but the poor should not think that these advantages bring the surest happiness. Many a child of wealth finds less enjoyment in the abundance and richness of gifts which have become common than the poor child who is made rich with a few of the cheapest and simplest of toys. And so with grown-up people.

The happiest people in the Christmas time are not those who receive the costliest gifts. Love can find expression in the most lavish expenditure of money, but the gift which conveys the tenderest suggestions of love and devotion is that which is wrought with loving hands for the one who is to be the recipient. We poor men, whether we have much or little money, are hampered in this respect and are often puzzled to find something which will convey the thought of our love. We blunder along and sometimes make ludicrously misfit presents, but our efforts are taken at their best by those who love us, who love us all the more, perhaps, when they smile at our maladroit way of showing our affection by gifts. In nine cases out of ten a gift which cost us less money would have been more acceptable, but we do not learn much by experience and go on spending more than we should spend every Christmas.

Because others can spend more money let us not despise the little we are able to spend. Let us not discount the love which sees into our hearts and takes the simple gift as a true heart's offering. Let us not expect costly gifts from those who are unable to bear the expenses. Let us discourage extravagance and encourage the simplicity of love's offerings. After all, it is not the value of the present we give which gives it value as a token of love. The most valuable love-tokens in this world are the simple things that the deft fingers of our mothers and wives and sisters have made, when every stitch in the making emphasized a loving thought. God bless the dear hearts and the tender hands that make the homes of the well-to-do more precious than the money that adorns them, and that glorify the homes of poverty with the dearest charms living. Let us not be ashamed of the simplest Christmas gifts which love can make. Let us not make ourselves unhappy because we are not rich.

is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking spot, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been too low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.

W. C. T. U. DEPARTMENT.

[CONDUCTED BY THE LOCAL UNION.]

The women of our country have led the crusade against the canteen, and they have had their faith pretty thoroughly tested as they have met obstacle after obstacle. There has been a determined effort to show that the canteen was a good thing and in the interests of morality, but the women of the country have never believed this. They have cried out all the harder, "it must be wiped out of existence."

At the present moment they seem to have triumphed. Their knight, "without reproach or fear," for the struggle, was Representative Littlefield, of Maine, who offered the following substitute for the canteen provision of the army bill: "The sale of or dealing in beer, wine, or any intoxicating liquors, by any person in any post, exchange or canteen or any army transport, or upon any premises used for military purposes by the United States, is prohibited. The Secretary of War is hereby directed to carry the provisions of this section into full force and effect."

This was adopted by a vote of 159 to 51. Many members of the W. C. T. U. were in the gallery and applauded the result. It, of course, may come to grief in the Senate, but it is doubtful if the bill will be delayed on this issue.

A DRUNKARD'S APPEAL.

A young man entered the barroom of the village tavern and called for a drink.

"No," said the landlord, "you have had the delirium tremens once, and I can't sell you any more."

He stepped aside for two young men, who had just entered and the landlord waited on them very politely. The other stood by, silent, and when they had finished he walked up to the landlord and thus addressed him: "Six years ago, I stood where those two young men now are. I was a young man of fair prospects. Now at the age of 28, I am a wreck. In this room I formed the habit that has been my ruin. Now sell me a few more glasses and your work will be done! I shall soon be out of the way; there is no hope for me. But they can be saved. Do not sell it to them. Sell it to me and let me die, and the world will be rid of me; but for heaven's sake, sell no more to them."

The landlord listened, pale and trembling. Setting down his decanter, he exclaimed, "God help me, it is the last drop I will sell to anyone!" And he kept his word.

BRAVE MEN FALL.

Victims to stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as women, and all feel the results in loss of appetite, poisons in the blood, backache, nervousness, headache and tired, listless, run-down feeling. But there's no need to feel like that. Listen to J. W. Gardner, Idaville, Ind. He says: "Electric Bitters are just the thing for a man when he is all run down, and don't care whether he lives or dies. It did more to give me new strength and appetite than anything I could take. I can now eat anything and have a new lease on life." Only 50 cents at C. E. Holton's drug store. Every bottle guaranteed.

When the stomach is tired out it must have a rest, but we can't live without food. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure "digests what you eat" so that you can eat all the good food you want while it is restoring the digestive organs to health. It is the only preparation that digests all kinds of food. Howard Gardner.

GOOD ADVICE.

The most miserable things in the world are those suffering from dyspepsia and liver complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as sour stomach, sick headache, habitual costiveness, palpitation of the heart, heart-burn, waterbrash, gnawing and burning pains at the pit of the stomach, yellow skin, coated tongue and disagreeable taste in the mouth, coming up of food after eating, low spirits, etc. Go to your druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 15 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac. Grissom & Fordham.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 22

Some one has remarked that Joel Chandler Harris will present about as good a title for the consideration of posterity as any literary man of the time. We believe that his creations portrayed by Uncle Remus are absolutely unique. One could imagine that when the negro race has shown some such progress, if it ever does, as the white race has attained, that Harris will be to it a kind of Grimm Brothers. The book stores are offering for Christmas "Daddy Jake, The Runaway," and other stories. The author makes the mistake, we believe, in throwing a sop to his Northern readers in the creation of "Crazy Sue," who tells the story that her master forced her to the field from her twin babies and they thereby were made to actually starve to death, and she became demented. It is safe to say that no slave owner ever did that. Self-interest, in the absence of humane instincts, would have precluded it. Beside this the stories are like, in their unique interest, the others which Uncle Remus has told.

"Ben Hur" is to be translated into Greek, it having already been done into many languages. James Whitcomb Riley remarks:

"You can't go nowhere, near nor fur, Where all the folks hain't read 'Ben Hur.'"

If Charlotte hadn't been so smart she might have gotten the branch office of the superintendent of Railway Mail Service for the third division which has just come to Greensboro. We and the Postmaster General were talking of putting it in Charlotte, but we didn't like some of her ways. She needn't be disheartened though, for whatever doesn't come to Greensboro goes there and she may get something yet.—Greensboro Telegram.

Every time hungry Greensboro, sniffing and scenting around for something to eat, picks up a little bone, she tears madly up and down with it in her mouth, yelping delightedly over her find and flaunting it in Charlotte's face, with the idea that her antics will arouse the Hornets' Nest city to furious jealousy. Nay, nay, Pauline! We maintain our well-fed equanimity. You are welcome to our leavings. We don't even care where you bury your soup bones. We are quite confident, however, that you will resurrect them tomorrow and next day to show them again.—Charlotte Observer.

No, no, Ma, much learning hath made thee mad. Greensboro is now preparing to build a monument partly in honor of Mecklenburg, to be placed where all her visitors will see it.

Perhaps we may not have war with China and then perhaps we may. It is the opinion of good and clear thinkers that a war with China would mean greater disaster every way than our war with Spain.—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

We had been living under the impression that there were no disasters for Samuel in the Spanish war.—Greensboro Telegram.

We lost Worth Bagley and many others. Is not the loss of such noble young men to be considered?—Scotland Neck Commonwealth.

The death of the young man was sad. But that was his part of being a soldier. If our contemporary meant to deplore the fact that men are killed in warfare, it should make its argument against the waging of war, and not call a specific war disastrous because a few men were killed.

We should like for Editor Dowd to say in what particular his offer to Mr. Bryan was more "attractive" than the one of $10,000 made that gentleman by the Omaha paper.

NOT THE ANNANIAS CLUB.

Does an era of good stealing
Make an era of good feeling?—Durham Sun.
Poeta Nasctur Non Fit.

The New York Herald has gotten up a Hall of Fame of its own and prints their names. It does not include Benjamin Franklin, Robert E. Lee, John C. Calhoun, Daniel Webster or Henry Clay.—News and Observer.

It makes a mistake only in leaving out the first two named.

"Married Forty-Two Years; Now Destitute," is the brading put upon a police-court case by the New York Sun. That was, indeed, a remarkably long postponement of the destitution.—Norfolk Landmark.

Perhaps it would not have been postponed at all had he not been married.

The mother of Judge Oliver and ex-Judge William Allen, was perhaps the only mother in North Carolina who ever had two sons judges on the bench at the same time.—Wilmington Messenger.

This was indeed a worthy distinction.

While Durham county has about all the school term it will use to advantage we hope the legislature will do something for the counties that are not so fortunate.—Durham Herald.

Our contemporary, as usual, is unselfish.

It probably makes Raleigh and Greensboro feel more like a city to think that they have better depots than Durham.—Durham Sun.

Nit.

During the siege of Pekin the members of the Diplomatic Corps ate eighty mules. They kicked some, but they ate all the same.—Wilmington Star.

They kicked against the pricks, which is always vain.

Mr. Bryan's paper will be called "The Commoner," and it will doubtless prove the true Democratic Vademecum.—Fayetteville Observer.

Where to?

Whatever pledges or promises were made in the last campaign, there is one which the legislature must see carried out, no matter what may seem to interfere. And that pledge is regarding the public schools, and increased educational facilities for the white children of North Carolina.—Newbern Journal.

We believe it since the newspapers have said that it must be done. We didn't when the politicians made the remark unsupported.

This is the last issue for this year, our printers desire to take a week off in which they will hunt "dear," quail and make old "Mollie Hare" look some place of safety.—Dunn Banner.

Old Molly will doubtless have to bear the brunt of the vacation sport.

NOW IT IS READY.

SOMETHING NEW AND SOMETHING GOOD.

One hundred rules for the acquirement, development and use of Personal Magnetism, by Professor MacKnight, is the title of a new work just out. After years of experience, research and study, Professor MacKnight, of the New York Institute of Science, has prepared one hundred rules on the above subject that cover every feature of how to acquire, develop and use that greatest of all personal powers, Personal Magnetism. This book is concise, simple and to the point. It takes the place of mail courses and also supplies that knowledge gained by personal instruction. Among others it offers the following advantages. It teaches the healthy how to preserve their health, and the sick how to become healthy. It teaches how to cure another who may be suffering from almost any form of indisposition. It teaches the poor lawyer how to become a good one, and a good lawyer how to become a better one. It teaches the poor preacher how to become a good one, makes him magnetic and popular with his people. It teaches the doctor of medicine how to be good. It teaches how to cure bad habits such as morphine, cocaine, liquor, cigarette, snuff and so on. It teaches a poor salesman how to become a good one, and the good salesman how to become a better one. It teaches the cruel husband to become good, and the lazy man to become active. It teaches you how to acquire riches, and how to be successful in business. From this book you can learn the foundation of all scientific knowledge. Every one of the one hundred rules laid down therein is worth the price of the book. It is perfectly applicable to both men and women, young and old alike. It is the first book of the kind ever offered to the public. It contains the "Science of all Sciences," the foundation of all knowledge. Every business and professional man or woman, every teacher and student cannot afford to be without this book, if they want to be up-to-date.

The regular price is $10, but a special offer is given till January 1, of $5. Additional rates to clubs as follows: Clubs of five, five per cent. discount; clubs of ten, ten per cent. discount; clubs of fifteen, fifteen per cent. discount; and clubs of twenty, twenty per cent. discount. Cash must accompany all orders. Address The Hamner College, High Point, N. C. 15-18-22

When you need a soothing and healing antiseptic application for any purpose, use the original DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve, a well known cure for piles and skin diseases. It heals sores without leaving a scar. Beware of imitations. Howard Gardner.

How the Old Man's Rosy Prospect Faded.

"SPECKULATION is all right for them as can see their way out an' figger the stages right along," remarked the old bull whacker. "I've known men has got rich by speckulation. I seen Bill here put a month's wages on the double O once an' hit three numbers runnin' in immediately subseckent investments, an' he was richer than this here Rockefeller for three days after. You never seen an affloecent a man as Bill was. But 's far's I'm concerned I want a sure thing with a rope hitched to it in case of an axle breakin'. I used to be sportive like the rest of you, but I hit the ground so hard it jarred all my back teeth loose, on the rosiest prospect that ever deloded a hard workin' son of toil an' made him think that life was going to be one grand hurdy-gurdy of valley tan an' tobaccor henceforward an' forevermore."

"What was that?" inquired the stock tender. "I never knowed you to have money enough to buy you a noo soot of clo'es, let alone speckilate."

"An' I've knowed him for close on to 15 years, off an' on, but I never knowed him any more of a sport than he is right now. He wouldn't play solitaire with himself an' stake navy beans on the result of the game," said the stage agent, who, according to his monthly custom, was paying off the company's employes with a pack of cards.

"It's this a-way," said the old man. "I don't as a general thing take any galoot into my confidence respectin' my financial operations, nor yit the proportions of my bank roll. I don't dress as slick as I might, mebbe, becuz I 'ud embarrass me when I fried my sowbellely to keep the grease spots off'n my pantes, an' it wouldn't go well with the negligee language I've got to use to make my team git down into the yokes, but don't you forget that I have got enough to buy this outfit put down in brine for winter use. It ain't no oil stock nor nothin' fancy—jes' plain little old government bonds. When I get a wad that gets too heavy to pack around I buy a bond or two an' tie it up with the rest of the bundle. I kin afford to slouch. When a man is on a solid financial basis appearances don't count for nothin' with him. He ain't like you ducks that's skeered somebody will tumble to their state of destitootion all the time an' has to wear good clo'es to make a bluff. No, sir! As far as takin' no chances is concerned, why, I told you right at the jump-away that I wasn't takin' any. What are you goin' to do with your month's pay, Sam?"

The stock tender grinned uneasily and looked at the stage agent, who reflected the grin.

"Well," said the agent, "it's my luck to-day, and the next day it may be his. Or I might git skinned if I tried you a whirl for some of them government bonds."

"What was your speckilation, Tubbs?" inquired the stock tender, who was evidently anxious to avoid a delicate subject.

"Turkeys," replied the old man. "I calculated on a corner in the poultry market an' slumped by reason of a defishubsy of tall timber. It looked mighty well, though, for quite awhile. It was this way. Me an' Joe Hilliard had made a stake out in California freightin' an' we decided that we would see a little of the bright side of life, in pursuance of which object we headed for St. Loocy. We arrived there on skedool time more or less an' there wasn't anythin' in the burg too good for us. Our blood was in condition to assimilate any quantity of richness without an' bad effects. We flew high an' never come down to roost. All the same we struck a hard series of three-one deals an' there was a shrinkage in our assets by the end of the week that would have had a depressin' influence on the bank of England. We could stand it, though. I told you we had made a stake."

"Well, I says to Joe: 'It ain't no use in spendin' our wealth all in one place. Let's give Omaha a touch of the sunny side of prosperity.' So we went on to Omaha and in two weeks more we was busted. Not plum busted, you understand. We had about $10,000 left between us. It was a little over that, because that represented the exact amount of our investment. It come about this way: We was a settin' in the bridal chamber of the best hotel in the place eatin' our dinner, which was roast turkey. I disremember the name of the hotel, an' I don't see that it cuts any grass with you men, anyway. I said we was eatin' roast turkey an' there ain't nobody can tempt me to eat roast turkey now. I want to tell you, I killed a man with a neck-yoke in Pierre last year for just offerin' me some. But then it was a whole lot different an' that turk tasted good. We didn't leave nothin' of it but the bones, an' when we had got to that pint Joe stretched back an' lettin' out all the slack there was in his belt, which wasn't too much, he says: 'Why can't we get turkey like that on the Pacific coast?'"

"That gi' me the idee. When a man has idee it don't take a stick of giant to blast them out in chunks that kin be handled. I run my fork keerlessly through my ha'r, which wuz longer than what it is now, an' I says: 'Why not buy turkeys here, drive them out to the coast an' recoperate our shattered finances?'"

"Joe fell in with my scheme an' that evenin' we went out to the market an' investigated. We was in luck, for the market was glutted with turkeys an' they was goin' beggin' at 75 cents a head. I figgered that they would sell on the coast for a dollar a pound easy an' that they would average 14 pounds in weight, takin' them all through. So we jest put that whole $10,000 in the birds an' started out."

"They was easy enough to drive; there ain't a more tractable or docile bird on two legs than the turkey is. If it had been hens, now, I wouldn't never have undertook it, but turkeys is all right. I jest put a bell on the biggest one in the outfit an' started him right, an' the rest went gobblin' along after him. It wuz as pretty a sight to see them turkeys on the road as ever you seen in your life. Twelve thousand five hundred of them, an' not a straggler in the bunch!"

"Fedd? Well, what do you think? Wasn't there bugs on the road? I reckon there was. It was a grasshopper year, I want to tell you, and the way those turkeys fatted up was a sin to snakes. Fourteen pounds! Why, there wasn't one of them turks that wouldn't have tipped the scale at 25 in a week, an' the bell turk an' the one that I strapped the blankets an' the cookin' outfit onto—I wouldn't want to tell you what they did weigh."

"No trouble about night herdin'. As soon as it was sundown they would commenst lookin' around for a place to roost, an' then they would fly up into the trees, an' we could rest easy until the next mornin'. We took the old overland trail along the Platte out to Fort Laramie, an' not a hitch in the arrangements. We could see how the folks in California was goin' to flock round us with their dust when we got there. We could see ourselves in carriages, with plug hats an' spike-tail coats an' blooded stock. Hah! Do you know what that would have brought us? It's easy. Puttin' it at the moderate estimate of a dollar a pound, an' allowin' the average of 25 pounds to the bird, there we were with a clean profit of $24.75 on every one of them, or allowin' for possible losses by death or misadventure, say $300,000 on the outfit. It was a gol derned shame that we had to slip up on the deal."

The old man began to smoke his pipe in stolid silence, and the stock-tender winked at the stage agent. The silence continued for half an hour, and was then broken by the stock-tender remarking that it was about time for him to feed them horses.

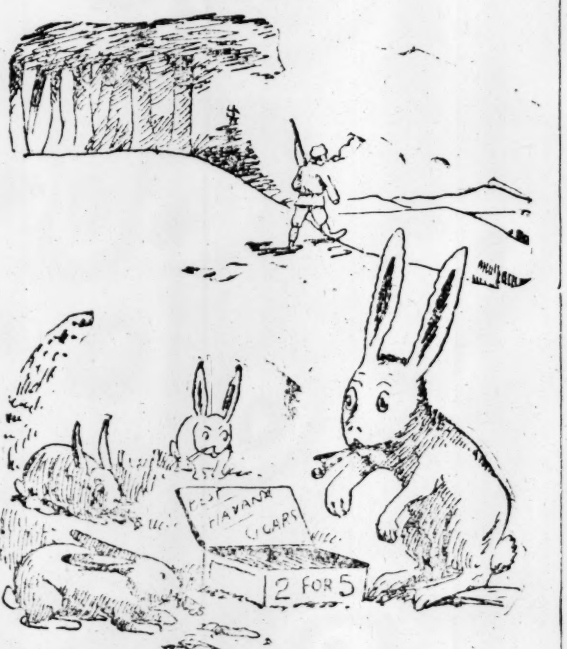

"Yes," resumed the old man, placidly. "We slipped up on it, an' it was this way: You see, we had had lots of cottonwood trees all along the Platte, but when we started to cross the plains to Green river we noticed that the turkeys got bothered at roosting time. They kep' twistin' their necks around lookin' fer some place to roost all night long, an' the next day some of them had necks like a pretzel. When they tried to feed an' took a shot at a bug or grasshopper they would miss him from six inches to a foot on one side or the other. Joe allowed that they would learn to calculate the variation after awhile, but they got poorer an' poorer, so all there was to it we had to take them back to the Platte to get the crick straightened out, which they did in a few days. But when we took them to the plains again we had the same old trouble, an', to make a long story short, we kep' drivin' them back an' forth an' back an' forth until there wasn't any more to drive."

"What got away with them?" asked the stage agent.

"We et 'em, you derned fool," replied the old man.—Chicago Daily Record.
